Reimagining what's possible with open platforms

Who we are

Abaco Systems delivers high performance rugged embedded computing solutions, based on industry standards and open architectures, to mission-critical applications in defense, aerospace and industry around the world. Previously known as GE Intelligent Platforms, we were spun out of GE in December 2015 and now operate as a standalone company.

What we do

Abaco Systems has perhaps the broadest range of products in the rugged embedded computing industry, including high-TRL mission-ready appliances; flexible mission-ready platforms; modular, scalable systems; embedded boards; and software tools. All are characterized by:
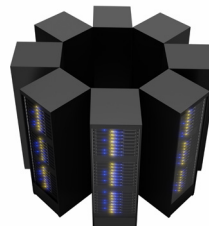

Support
Abaco's absolute commitment to long term service and support that maximizes your return on investment and minimizes your long term cost of ownership.

Rugged
Industry-leading ruggedness and reliability, capable of withstanding extremes of shock, vibration, temperature and contaminants in harsh environments.

Open Standards
Implementation of industry standards and open architectures, providing our customers with flexibility, lower risk, lower cost and faster time-to-market.

SWaP
Minimal SWaP – size, weight and power – so that you can deploy our solutions in challenging, highly constrained environments such as unmanned vehicles.

How we do it

Our customers are front and center of everything we do.

We operate ethically, with unyielding honesty and integrity.

Innovation drives every product development.

We are approachable, flexible and responsive.

We minimize our customers' risk, cost and time-to-market.

Where we are

Why we do it

At Abaco, we specialize in mission-critical systems. Whether those are deployed on board an armored vehicle, aircraft or ship, or on an energy exploration platform or locomotive, they can often make the difference between life and death. That's why innovative technologies and rugged, robust reliability in the harshest environments are built into everything we do – because we're in the business of protecting lives.
